

Development of recycling for thermosetting polymer waste using supercritical methanol.

조항규, 임종성*

서강대학교

(limjs@sogang.ac.kr*)

Industrial wastes of thermosetting polymer have been burned or disposed of in landfills because there is no recycling technology due to their insoluble and infysible network chain structure. However, recycling of thermosetting polymers has been taken a growing attention because of issues of environmental pollution and of resources conservation. in this paper, uprising recycling technologies of thermosetting polymer using supercritical methanol are reviewed.