

Analysis of grid pattern formation in blade coating

김은유, 안광국, 남재욱^{1,†}
성균관대학교; ¹서울대학교
(jaewooknam@snu.ac.kr[†])

We have observed the grid pattern formation during a blade coating experiment, where a polymer solution flows through a gap between a blade and a moving substrate. The phenomenon has complex structure because the system involves evaporation of a solvent, transport of a polymer, and Marangoni effect. In the present study, we attempt to understand the mechanism behind the grid pattern formation using flow visualizations and theory.